THUDEN. When at the capital in January last was our pleasure to meet Hon. Montgomery Blair, a gentleman as pleasant in social intercourse as he is present generation have figured more extensively or influentially in national politics than he; noue are so situated as to be better "posted" on passing events of real importance, and we were im pressed with his earnest and practical remarks on the issue for the Democracy in the approaching Presidential contest—that of reform. His choice of a leader and his reasons for it are given with characteristic frankness.—Editor Freeman's Journal WASHINGTON, March 18, 1806. DEAR SIR -I have your letter requestng for publication the views expressed by me in a recent conversation with respect to the pending Presidential con-test. The sum of them was that we ought to continue the contest as we began in 1872, when we agreed to forego all other issues save that of reform in the administration of the government. The adversary then struggled and still strives, with the help of Hon. Ben. mind. We did not carry the election in 1872, because we were not fully successful in making the issues of reform. But we made such a beginning that the victory of our adversaries has proved a bar ren one. We so far succeeded that a show of investigation had to be made.

By this course Tilden has made himself, more than any other man of our day, the representative man of the ides to which the Democratic ; arty so emphatically pledged itself in 1872, and his nomination would be accepted, not only by the Liberal Republicans who then acted with us, but by thousands who then held back, as a sure guarantee that the pledge would be faithfully redeemed; and his war record and his financial views would effectually pre-vent diversion by false issues. They will also unite upon some independent candidate for governor, of whom the names o several have been mentioned .- Atlanta (Ga) Constitution (Dem).

The Harrisburg Patriot shows that the carpetbaggers of the south are a two-edged calamity. They not only rob their immediate constituents, but the unraveling of their credentials is a tax on the exchequer of the nation. I is estimated that it may cost as high as fifty thousand dollars to unwind Senator Spencer, so as to expose him in the original cocoon condition in which he undertook to buy his way into the senate from the State of Alabama. It is more than absurd for him (the governor) to say that the claims of Mr. Eastlemust be determined by the senate as the representative of the idea sought to be advanced. My preference for Til-den is only because his nomination is to evade a duty prescribed by the laws which he has sworn to execute. A competent body has declared that the vacancy did exist; another competent body has supplied it; it only remains for the governor te accredit the senator elect .- New Orleans Picayune (Ind.). We wish the Republican party could be disabused of the erroneous impression that its fortunes are indissolvoly linked with those of the vulgar, dishouest, dranken reprobate who polities the air of the white House. The country has suffered too much from bull puppetty in high places. And it isn't such a difficult matter to shuffle off a Presithrow and arraign and convict as crim- | dent, after all. The Whigs did it in the case of Tyler, and the Republicans did it with Audy Johnson—a much bet er and stronger man than Grant eye

A contributor to the Commercial calls for the aid of the Commercial, Springfield Republican, the New York Tribune and the New York Nation in getting a Republican candidate for the Presidency. Istit this rather rough? The four papers worked together for a convention in 1872 The Tribune managers beat the rest of them, and secured the nomination of a man whom the Nation openly repudiated, to whom the Commercial gave a half-and-half support, and of whom Sam Bowles was no friend. Toe Tribune alone was enthusiast'c .- Cincinnati Times (Rep.). This convention will meet on the thirtieth instant. Appearances indicate that the contest for delegates to the National convention will be between the third-termers, consisting of Grant's office-holders and henchmen, and the partieaus of Morton, whose faith in the loody-shirt tactics is sublime. The Times intimates that Morton has resumed his agitation of the Mississippi election affair, and waved the gory unlergarment alof: just in time to please the fancy and captivate the bearts of
